Business Breakfast Practising your English

So, you've almost got your business English under control...you can make your point in a meeting, you can present yourself, product or company, you can write an email...GREAT!...But what happens when you take your client(s) out for lunch or dinner and you have to tell them what is on the menu, or just do some "small talk"?

Who is this for?

This is for everyone who has to entertain in English! Lean back and enjoy breakfast as we provide the most important vocabulary, phrases, including some idiomatic "food" expressions to add "flavour" to any business meal.

It is also an opportunity to give a presentation about your job, business and or industry, perhaps focusing on new initiatives, changing trends or strategies for the future. This could even be an opportunity to network!

The focus will be on communication (including presentation skills) and vocabulary rather than grammar although grammatical structures that impede communication will naturally be dealt with.

Reserve your seat now to avoid disappointment.
